#1 and #2 PLASTIC BOTTLES with NECKS (remove lids & rinse)

The number on the bottom of any plastic container only indicates its plastic resin code. There are two processes for forming plastic containers - blow molding and injection molding. In a blow molded process the plastic is blown into a particular shape, such as a bottle, whereas in the injection mold process the plastic resin is injected into a mold that forms a particular shape, such as a butter tub. The resins from a milk jug and a butter tub might be the same but the different processes use different chemicals that require different temperatures to melt the resins and therefore must be separated when recycled. Because there is no regional market for the injection molded plastics or other numbers, the Recycling Center can only accept #1 and #2 blow molded plastic bottles in which the neck is smaller than the base of the bottle. Bottles that held toxins (drain cleaner, automotive fluids, etc.) will NOT be accepted. To dispose of toxins, see flip side of this brochure under Recycling Center Household Hazardous Waste category.
